

"Long-term communities must invariably struggle over the degree to which they are going to be inclusive.

Even short-term communities must sometimes make that difficult decision.

But for most groups it is easier to exclude than include.... Communities do not ask,

"How can we justify taking that person in?"

Instead the question is,

"Is it at all justifiable to keep this person out?"

M. Scott Peck