

"Modern organizations in the promise of the "good life" have separated us from traditional ties to the land, to our families, to the community, and perhaps more importantly from the connections to our own spirit.

In this process, millions of us have been cut off from our hearts' desire — to be part of a larger community of endeavor that is worthy of our best efforts."

Juanita Brown